THE MIDDLEBU CAMPUS

VOL. XVI. MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, WEDNESDAY, OC ER 15, 1919 No. 4

2ND ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT IN GYM

Ernest Harold Baynes to Talk on "Animals in Warfare"

Lecture Will be Illustrated by Slides From Speaker's Own Snap Shots

The second number in the entertainment course being given under the direction of the Student Life Committee will take place tonight in the Gymnasium. The entertainer for this evening will be Ernest Harold Baynes who will speak on "The Use of Animals in Modern Warfare." Mr. Baynes is one of the greatest authorities on animals and birds in the country. Over two thirds of the bird clubs of America, it is estimated, owe their origin directly to his lecture on birds.

Mr. Baynes is especially prepared to talk on the subject which he has chosen for tonight as he personally investigated the part that animals played in the war in England, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Egypt, and Palestine and comes to Middlebury with a large number of slides reproduced from snapshots which he himself took in those countries.

The lecture is to be given in the Gymnasium rather than the Mead Chapel because of the greater facilities which the former building offers for the showing of lantern slides.

The Wilfred Entertainment

Thomas Wilfred, erstwhile bard, soldier and inventor, delighted a large gathering in Mead Memorial Chapel with a brilliant interpretation of ancient and modern ballads on his medieval instrument, the lute, last Wednesday evening in the first of the college entertainment series arranged by the Committee on Student Life.

Mr. Wilfred's rich voice thoroughly reminiscent of the minstrelsy of middle ages, together with his marked ability in portraying character, gave a unique charm to his rendering of a number of songs of different tongues. Several were given in the nature of readings in which Mr. Wilfred assumed role after role, beggarly and prince-like, with the utmost ease. The program was printed in last week's Campus.

PROMINENT "Y" WORKERS TO VISIT MIDD FRIDAY

Clarence P. Shedd, student field secretary of the New England Department of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Mary Weisel, secretary of the New England Y. W. C. A., will be guests of Middlebury Friday.

Mr. Shedd will speak to the men in the interests of the Quadrennial Student Volunteer Convention which will be held December 31 to January 4. The place at which the convention is to be held will not be definitely known until the authorities have found a city where 8000 student delegates may be accommodated and where there is a hall large enough to hold this number of men and allow all who wish to take part.

Miss Weisel, who has visited Middlebury before, and who has proved extremely popular with the women of the college, will conduct an open Student Volunteer meeting on the other side of the Hill. It is hoped that every girl who is at all interested will be present at this meeting which will be of the greatest importance.

MIDD DEFEATED BY BOSTON COLLEGE

Blue and White Falls Before Cavanaugh's Eleven

Costly Fumbles Spell Defeat; Parker and Dake Out

Coach Brown's charges journeyed to Boston last week where on Saturday afternoon they stacked up against the heavy Maroon and Gold eleven representing Boston College. Coach Cavanaugh's proteges proved too much of a proposition for the lighter Vermont men and the final score showed Middlebury on the short end of a 25 to 0 tally. Captain Fitzpatrick of B. C. was the individual star of the afternoon and despite the fact that he was supposed to be on the injured list, the sturdy half-back played in his usual brilliant form and easily carried off the honors of the day. Midd was without the services of "Rocky" Dake on the line and "Keck" Parker in the back field. "Rocky's" knee was still in bad shape and Parker was taken ill on the eve of the game.

On the kickoff Corrigan caught the ball on his own 10-yard line and ran fully 60 yards before he was forced out of bounds by Potratz. A few plays later, the shifty quarter circled left end for 30 yards and planted the pigskin behind the goal-posts for the first touchdown. Fitzpatrick failed to kick goal. Near the end of the quarter Fitzpatrick drop-kicked a goal from the 36-yard line adding three points to Boston's total.

The second quarter opened with the ball in Midd's possession on its 11-yard line. Drost went through guard for a yard but on the next play Ross fumbled on an attempted punt and Heaply recovered the ball for B. C. Scanlon made five yards through tackle, Fitzpatrick shot through center for three more and on the next play went over the line for a touchdown. He kicked the goal.

Fitzpatrick kicked to Goode who fumbled when he was tackled hard on his own 20-yard line, Heaply again recovering the leatheroid for his team. The Midd line held well, however, and after being thrown for a loss of eight yards, Fitzpatrick dropped back to the 35-yard line and booted his second field goal of the game squarely between the uprights.

Fitzpatrick kicked off again to Goode who was downed on the 15-yard line.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS CLUB

All members of the College are invited to co-operate in the weekly discussion of current social problems.

A group of men and women are planning to meet each Sunday noon to talk over the social and economic questions of the day under the leadership of Dr. Lawrence. The place of meeting will be a room in the Methodist Church; but the club is entirely undenominational and seeks to serve the whole community. The meetings will begin at 12:05 and conclude promptly at 12:40. All persons interested are welcome, either to take part in the discussions or to listen.

At the meeting last Sunday Dr. Lawrence gave a talk on a quotation from the third chapter of Luke, the fourteenth verse, which says, "Be Content with Your Wages." Next Sunday the club will discuss "The Steel Strike."

STUDENTS WILL HAVE BAND AGAIN

Howard Hazeltine of Bristol Will Be Leader this Year

Organization to be Helped by Trustee Appropriation

Dean Wiley has announced that Middlebury will have a band again this year and one which will probably be better than any that the College has yet seen. The revival has been made possible partly by an appropriation made by the Trustees at their last meeting and partly by the decision of the student body to stand by the organization and make it a success this year.

For the past few years the band has been decreasing in strength, due mostly to the poor support given it by the students, and the recent death of A. D. Vittum, who was band leader for many years, made the prospects of a healthy organization this year look very slim indeed. In an effort to help the situation the Trustees at their last meeting voted to grant a sum of money for the support of the band on condition that the student body be as willing to stand by the organization and see that it is made a success this year. At the recent meeting of the Undergraduate Association the men were unanimous in a decision to revive the organization. As a result Dean Wiley has announced that the College will do their part in the matter.

The band leader for this year has already been procured, Howard Hazelton, leader of the Bristol Band, being selected for this position by the authorities. Hazelton has had a number of years' experience as a band leader and is one of the best baritone players in this section. In addition to leading the band Hazelton will also play the baritone in place of Douthit, who has left College, until another student is qualified to take the rather difficult part.

Although a number of new men have already tried out this year, there are still three more clarinets and one bass horn not in use. Manager Carpentier and Dean Wiley are in hopes that before the band begins practice in earnest, at least twenty men will have tried out for positions. The College will furnish fourteen instruments, including two drums, two bass horns, two trombones, three altos, four clarinets, and one baritone horn. Cornets are not supplied as the cornetists usually furnish their own instruments.

NEW BUREAU AT PROVOST'S OFFICE

Another Link Between Alumni and College Forged

New Agency Will Also Find Positions For Graduates

An Appointment Bureau has been formed by the administration authorities of the College in an effort to establish some means through which Middlebury graduates may be helped after they get through college. The business of the Bureau will be conducted at the office of the Provost where Miss Blanchard has been placed in charge. The Bureau will endeavor to keep in touch with Middlebury men and women after they graduate, securing positions for them and rendering other service which is in their power.

At the present time the Bureau wishes the names of any Middlebury graduates who will be candidates for teaching positions. Every week numerous inquiries are being received at the office for Midd alumni who would be willing to teach. Few candidates are available at this season of the year, so the Bureau may be of great help to any who would like to accept such positions. Information relative to any teaching vacancies whatsoever will also be appreciated.

The names as well as the addresses of all Middlebury alumni who are engaged in educational work are likewise desired by the Bureau. Prompt notification of changes in address will aid in the work.

REV. JASON PIERCE SPEAKER AT VESPERS

The college was fortunate in having as its speaker at vesper service last Sunday, the Rev. Jason U. Pierce, pastor of the Second Congregational Church of Dorchester, Mass., and senior chaplain of the Second Division of the American Expeditionary Force, which division had more casualties than any other during the war. Rev. Pierce took the third commandment as his text—"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain". In his unusual and forcible interpretation of this one of the ten commandments he showed the difference between profanity of the lip and profanity of the heart. In France men had gone down to their death, cursing, whose lives had been made holier by their very manner of dying. Loyalty to country, to home and to God, were found there, and should be the marks of all those who would obey the commandment in its true sense.

President Addresses Teachers

President Thomas was called upon at the eleventh hour to deliver the opening address before 1500 Vermont teachers at their annual convention at Montpelier last Wednesday afternoon in place of U. S. Commissioner of Education, Philander P. Claxton. Miss Mary Dutton of the Home Economics department was one of the Convention speakers. Dr. Collins and Professor MacFarland were also present.

On Wednesday evening, the president delivered another address, this time before the Vermont Conference on Social Work at St. Johnsbury. The subject of his address was "Americanization."

Winford E. Heath '21 announces his engagement to Miss Cloustie R. Luce of Royalton, Vt.

Midd Songs; A Protest and Appeal

A one hundred-dollar liberty bond plus a universal demand for a song book, plus concerted action! We have the first and there are plenty of ways to increase it, the second is noisily evident on our campus, and the third ought not to be difficult to obtain; but no amount of mathematical juggling will ever make the result a successful Middlebury song book unless we add some new songs of a new type.

Do you realize that we have only one or two songs that are worthy of our Alma Mater, that little marble queen enthroned in the green hills of Vermont? Did you ever stop to think that the reason we do not sing our college songs more is because they are not worth singing a great deal? Most of them are mediocre as to sentiment, inclined to be monotonous as to music, and with but two or three exceptions they appeal to but one form of college loyalty, and that not the highest, the loyalty aroused by the athletic contest. To be sure we need football songs, plenty of them, and "peppy" and tuneful ones, but more than these we need songs that go deeper and wider in their emotional appeal.

Not long ago one of our professors spoke of the college as the student's "intellectual birthplace". The unity and fraternity of souls that comes from this common experience is the basis of true college spirit, and it ought to be the key-note of our college songs. It would be an unforgivable tragedy if the Spirit of Middlebury should die because it has no concrete expression to keep it alive in the hearts of generations of college men and women. Let us have songs that give adequate expression to all that is finest and most beautiful in the life and ideals and purposes of our college. Then we can have a Middlebury song book that will mean something to us and to those who come after us.

The Freshman P-rade

The annual Freshman P-rade is to take place in a little over two weeks. The question is, what kind of a P-rade will the class of 1922 stage for this year.

For the past few years the P-rades have been noticeably failures as true Middlebury events, events which indicate the real Middlebury spirit to the visitors and friends of the College who witness them. Middlebury stands for all that is clean, true, wholesome, progressive and honorable, but no one would accuse our last few P-rades of possessing these characteristics.

Why not have a Freshman P-rade this year which will be a true index of the Midd spirit—a P-rade which will be clean, decent, ingenuous, unique, and one which will arouse praise and commendation, instead of disgust among its witnesses?

From a Classmate

The following letter has been received by the editor of the Middlebury Register from a former classmate of "Pick" Fisher '10, who played in the recent world series:

Chicago, Ill.,
Oct. 7, 1919.

Dear Sir:

"As a classmate of Ray Fisher and a close follower of his baseball career, I am anxious that "The Register" give him full credit for his showing, both in the regular season and in his World Series game. When I saw "Pick" here early in July he thought he was "through". That wonderful arm that had worked continuously from his high school days in 1904 and '05 when he filled in on the college team, appeared to have lost its cunning. His seven years with the N. Y. Yankees had been heart-breakers. Day after day I saw him at the Polo grounds pitch games that should have been his with a real team behind him. But he seemed destined to retire from the national pastime with nothing but a record as an average pitcher.

"Upon being traded this year to Cincinnati for Schneider he started like a whirlwind. He had more "stuff" than ever, and won his first five starts. The break came and for weeks he warmed up daily only to be relegated to the bench.

"This was his status when I saw him last. He figured his baseball days were limited. Then came the Reds' "croocial" series with the Giants, three double-headers in three successive days. Pat Moran ran out of pitchers and was forced to use "Pick". Result—a shutout for the Moran's. His record at that time was six won and five lost. From that date to October first he was started eight times and won every game, finishing with the record of fourteen victories and those same five defeats. He finished fourth in the National League, ahead of such great hurlers as Alexander, Vaughn, Rudolph and Toney.

"His World Series game was a heartbreaker, his old Yankee luck seemed to follow him. One earned run was made from his offerings and his team-mates, for the only time in the Series, failed to score.

"Ray made a hit in two appearances at the plate and turned in two plays in the field that were wonders.

"His control was never better and the critics gave him great credit for his showing. It must be remembered that while the other Red pitchers were getting the breaks and having runs piled up for them, "Pick" had nothing but hard luck to buck. Still he was going better in the seventh and eighth than in the earlier innings.

"Next season will see him back on the mound with the World's Champions, going better than ever, and I am sure all Middlebury students, graduates and residents join me in hoping he has many years left on the diamond, and will last long enough to better Cy Young's record.

Respectfully submitted,
R. F. Hunt
Midd 1910."

Sport Wrinkles

By Burgins

Last Saturday for the first time this year football occupied the place of honor on sportdom's stage. With the world's baseball championship safely tucked away in the Queen City of the West the field was cleared for the display of the pigskin warriors and the day saw practically every eleven in the country in action. The results of the afternoon's pastiming showed a few surprises and one real upset Princeton's narrow escape from defeat, Yale's goal line crossed, Pittsburgh's easy victory over West Virginia and Brown's comparatively weak stand against Colgate were the outstanding surprises of the day while the real upset occurred in New Brunswick where Lehigh turned the tables on Sanford's lauded Rutger's aggregation.

By less than a foot the Maroon eleven representing Lafayette was prevented from humbling Princeton and sending the Tiger down to defeat, in one of the hardest of the early season contests. When that big Orange and Black line held those fleet Maroon backs for downs with the ball less than 12 inches from the goal-line a sigh of relief was heaved by the Princeton cohorts. Lafayette has rarely proved an easy opponent but to outplay the Tigers on their own bailiwick as they did Saturday was a distinct surprise for which Lafayette deserves a lot of credit and praise.

The victory of Coach Keady's charges over Foster Sanford's Rutgers eleven was the upset of the day. Ability to take advantage of opportunities and a hard fighting spirit marked the Lehigh play. Lehigh, it is said, got the breaks, but then, that's all in the game and the winner always seems to get the breaks. Lehigh and Lafayette are rivals and a real huminger of a battle seems to be assured when those two elevens clash.

There was no surprise in Syracuse's victory over West Point. The Army, however, put up a stiff game and showed lots of improvement. At present the Navy looks far ahead of the West Pointers but Coach Daly's charges are improving rapidly and they may surprise Gil Dobie and his Annapolis boys when the classic is staged.

Pittsburgh's easy victory over West Virginia gives further evidence of the strength of the Panthers. The Mountaineers have a strong bunch but they were no match for Glenn Warner's men. Pitt travels East this week and tackles Syracuse in the Orange Stadium wihch means a battle royal. Whether the powerful Syracuse forwards will be able to withstand the attack of that incomparable Pitt backfield will be interesting to watch.

U. V. M. made a good impression in their game with Columbia and although defeated had the satisfaction of outplaying their opponents during the greater part of the afternoon's sport. Columbia, however, seems to be having some tough sledding and is in for a defeat this week when Williams journeys to South Field, unless the Blue and White braces considerably.

Professional football is the newest in the line of sports in the East. Charley Brickley is organizing a New York Giant eleven which he proposes to send against some of the crack "pro" warriors from the West. Brickley's action is calling forth some protest from certain sources which object strenuously to college men commercializing reputations gained in collegiate sport for sport's sake. The ethical standard of "pro" football is bound to be a much-mooted question but in the West where the pro's have been disporting on the gridiron for several years the sport seems to find favor.

"Pick" Fisher has returned from the scenes of the recent baseball classic and may soon be able to get out and help Coach Brown in whipping the Blue hosed footballers into shape for that Norwich game which is less than three weeks off.

The absence of "Rocky" Dake and "Keck" Parker was a big factor in Midd's comparatively ragged showing at Boston. Nevertheless Cavanaugh seems to have molded together a fast machine which should give Yale its first real test when the Maroon and Gold clashes with the Bulldog in the Bowl Saturday.

DEKES WIN FIRST INTERFRAT GAME

The first interfraternity football game held in several years took place Saturday afternoon on Porter Field, when the Delta Kappa Epsilon team defeated the Kappa Delta Rho aggregation by a score of 27 to 0.

Two touchdowns were made in the first quarter, one by Tatro and one by Hulihan, one in the second quarter by Tatro and one in the fourth quarter by Geddes. Tatro kicked three goals from touchdown.

The first two touchdowns were obtained by playing straight football. After the kick off was received by Hulihan, who ran it back to the 40-yard line, Tatro, Hulihan and Geddes carried it almost to the K. D. R. goal line and on the next play Tatro carried it across. Near the end of the quarter Hulihan made the other touchdown on a pretty run around left end. In the second quarter the third touchdown of the game was made by Tatro in an off-tackle play, the ball having been carried from mid-field to the K. D. R. territory by steady gains. The last touchdown in the fourth quarter, was also made as a result of straight football, Geddes being principally responsible for it.

Summary:

Apollo Club Redivivus

The Apollo Club, made up of the advanced Latin and Greek students, and those in the courses in Fine Arts, is one of the older organizations of the College, and has had an interesting part in the cultivation of love for the Humanities in the Middlebury of days gone by. Its work has been the investigation of various interesting problems arising from class-room presentations in these three departments, and its meetings have usually been busied with discussions of some particular problem in the language or the life of the ancient people, or a newly discovered bit of statuary, a new interpretation of a painting, or possibly some more general relation of the Classics or the Fine Arts to the cultural, the literary, or, as well, the practical side of the world about us.

The first meeting of the Club, for organization, for the election of officers and for the arrangement of the program for the year, will be held at the Latin Room on Friday of this week at four-thirty o'clock. Will all those thinking of joining give their names to Professor Sanford at some time before that date?

About forty Middlebury graduates were present at a Midd reunion held in the Congregational Church at Montpelier last week, when the State Teachers' Convention was meeting in that city.

American Legion Drive

The Middlebury College Post of the American Legion is conducting a drive for new members. The college post is anxious to have a good membership by the twentieth of October, for each fifteen paid up members enrolled in the post previous to that date will entitle the post to one delegate at the State Convention which is to be held in Burlington, October 30. There is also the possibility of Middlebury sending a man to the National Convention which will be held at Minneapolis November 11.

The purposes of the American Legion are summed up in the following copy of the preamble to the Constitution: "For God and country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to make right the master of might, to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

The College Post is designated as Post number 4, State of Vermont. It was the fourth post in Vermont to be granted a Charter. Professor Bonney is the temporary chairman and Henry Thomas is the temporary secretary. Both are enthusiastic workers, and are confidently looking forward to a large membership.

The dues are twenty-five cents per year, which sum goes to the National Organization. Each member of the American Legion is entitled to a copy of the "American Legion Weekly," a live wire magazine for the ex-service man.

Midd Gives Memorial Organ

It will doubtless be of interest to Middlebury's students and alumni to know that last Commencement it was decided that a pipe organ should be given to the Japan Mission of Dr. George M. Rowland, Middlebury '83, as a memorial to his son-in-law, Captain William Mollis Sistare, Jr., of the class of '16 who died at his home in New London, Conn., last November while on leave.

Sistare entered Middlebury in 1912 after a year at Brown University. He was exceedingly popular and able as a college man, well known for his athletic and musical abilities, and was a member of the Sages, the Waubanakees and the Delta Upsilon Fraternity. After his graduation he became an assistant professor of Chemistry and Mathematics at St. Stephen's College, Anandale, N. Y., remaining there until he entered the training camp at Plattsburg in 1919. He was speedily commissioned as a second lieutenant and immediately sailed for France where he was a member of the 17th Field Artillery. Under continuous fire for six months, he gained an enviable reputation for bravery and qualities of leadership. After receiving a severe wound he was sent back to this country where he was commissioned as first lieutenant, and later as captain. In July, 1918 he was married to Pauline Rowland '17. Mrs. Sistare is soon to begin active work with her father in his mission at Sapporo, Japan, where the organ is to be enstalled.

Faculty Club Meets

Members of the faculty met in the Old Chapel room Tuesday evening and reorganized the faculty club for the coming year. The officers elected were: President, Professor Harrington; vice-president, Professor White; secretary-treasurer, Professor Ryland; member of executive committee, Professor Davis. The members discussed informally plans for the year.

Midd Veterans Back

Through inadvertance the names of nine men, who saw service in the recent war and who have returned to college, were left out last week. There are twenty-six men now back. The omitted names were:

1921

Ronald J. Darby, Whitefield, N. H., 20 Tr. Battery, F. A. C. O. T. C., Camp Taylor, Ky.

James H. Noble, Fair Haven, Vt., M. T. Corps, U. P. O. 779, American E. F.

Andrew G. Osteyee, Poultney, Vt., U. S. S. Carola, No. 4, U. S. Navy.

Russel M. Sanford, Lakeside, Calif. U. S. S. Orizaba, U. S. Navy.

1922

Fred E. Jewett, Hallowell, Me. Served with 304th Infantry, 76th Division, Amer. E. F.

William M. Meacham, Morrisville, Vt. With Headquarters Company, 302nd Field Artillery, Amer. E. F.

Howard P. Nelson, Salisbury, Vt. 360th Aero Squadron, Amer. E. F.

Kenneth M. Preston, Salisbury, Vt. Hospital Training School, Newport, R. I.

Malcolm Ross, Rutland, Vt. Radio Laboratory, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

Six more women have enrolled in the upper classes this year. They are:

Anna Clark '20, Peru, N. Y. Transfer from Teachers College, Columbia University.

Constance Dana '20, Rutland ,Vt. Transfer from Smith College.

Agnes K. Garrow '20, Paducah, Ky. Transfer from Indiana University.

Corinne M. Weber, '21, Hyannis, Mass.

Alma Wright '22, Santiago, Santo Domingo, West Indies. Transfer from Smith College and Emerson College of Oratory.

Caroline Sargent '22. Originally a member of the class of 1915.

S. N. C. Bacon Bat

The Sunday Noon Club held an indoor bacon bat in the vestry of the Congregational Church Friday evening. There were several unexpected occurrences, not the least of which was the unfortunate accident which befell McPhee '20 and Stevens '22. During a game the two came together somewhat forcibly and both were cut dangerously near the eye. Notwithstanding the many vicissitudes of fortune, the 'bat" was a decided success.

Prof. Skillings in Paris

A French postcard showing the devastated Rheims cathedral, has been received by Professor Sanford from Professor Skillings, who is now in Paris. Professor Skillings says on the card: "Visited martyred Rheims last Friday and the trenches to the southeast of the city. Not a house untouched. Forty thousand people now in city and the mystery is where they sleep at night. Most impressive thing to me was the indestructtbility of the sublime cathedral, even after the terrific bombardment."

Intercollegiate Notes

The total enrollment at the University of Vermont this year is 810.

In the recent football game between Connecticut Agricultural College and the New Hampshire Agricultural College, Gardner Dow, a member of the Connecticut team, was killed.

A unique feature of the salt and tomato fight at Bates College this year was the hurling of salt and soph propaganda down on the freshmen from an airplane.

The Dartmouth Outing Club this year has a membership of over 1000.

Freshmen at Rutgers took the intelligence examination for high school graduates devised by Professor Thorndyke of Columbia, on entering this fall. The test is similar to the army intelligence test in many ways and is being given by many other of the eastern colleges this year.

Prominent Alumni

It has been suggested that The Campus publish every week or two information concerning some of Middlebury's more prominent alumni. In selecting the men of whom we shall write, an effort has been made to choose graduates who have been engaged in different occupations and who have carried out Middlebury's ideals to the greatest degree.

The alumnus whose career we shall follow in this issue is one of the older living graduates of the College, Brainerd Kellogg, who received his bachelor's degree with the class of 1858. Mr. Kellogg was born in Champlain N., Y. He prepared for college at that place and entered Middlebury in 1854. After graduating Mr. Kellogg was a teacher in Kentucky for one year. He left Kentucky, however, in 1859 to accept a position as teacher at Macedon Center, N. Y. A year later he returned to Middlebury where he was a tutor for one year. In 1861 he was made Professor of Rhetoric and English Literature of the College which position he held for seven years. In 1868 Professor Kellogg left his alma mater to accept a position as Professor of the English Language and Literature in the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. This position he held until 1907. In 1899 the professor was made Dean of the Faculty of the Institute, resigning this office in 1907, also.

Dr. Kellogg was made a trustee of the College in 1885. He is President of the Philological Department of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. He was twice orator before the General Convention of his Greek Letter Fraternity and was the speaker who dedicated the Starr Library and the McCullough Gymnasium of the College. He is an author of a number of text books, including a Rhetoric, a History of the English Language, a work on Word Building, a High School Grammar and occasional addresses. He was the joint author, with Alonzo Reed, of Graded Lessons in English, Higher Lessons in English and "A One Book Course."

Dr. Kellogg married Julia M. Cutter, August 19, 1862. He has two children, Frederick R. and Julia R. (Mrs. S. Vilas Beckwith).

He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities. In addition to his A. B. degree which he received in 1858 he also holds an A. M., which was granted him in 1861. He was made a doctor of laws by Ripon College in 1890 and was similarly honored by his alma mater in 1902. The degree of doctor of literature was conferred upon him in 1915.

Dr. Kellogg was the donor of the Kellogg Latin prizes given for excellence in Horace, and which were granted for the first time last June.

Mr. Kellogg is at present living at Morristown, N. J., having retired from active work. The summers he usually spends in Middlebury where he has many friends.

Rand Honored

Ernest L. Rand, who was formerly the Y. M. C. A. secretary at Middlebury has received the distinction of bringing to America the first military cross of St. George, fourth degree, awarded to an American during the recent fighting between the Russian troops and the Bolsheviki. Mr. Rand arrived in this country last Wednesday, after more than two years in oversea service with the Y. M. C. A. He is now at New York where he is making arrangements to return to Siberia again. The cross of St. George was awarded to Mr. Rand for "valiant behavior and displayment of personal self-denial in action during the engagement on the 22nd of March, 1919."

Mr. Rand was well known to the College men who were attending while he was in charge of the local Y. M. C. A. work.

Interfraternity Council Meets

The first meeting of the interfraternity council this year was held last night in room 2 of the Old Chapel. Election of officers was held which resulted in the unanimous choice of Dr. Harrington for president, and Fullington '20 as secretary-treasurer. The executive committee was also elected, which will consist of Moreau, Parker and Fullington. The council discussed at some length the advisability of making changes in the rushing rules. It was finally left to a committee, which was appointed and which will investigate the rushing systems of other colleges.

The interfraternity council is composed of two representatives from each fraternity in College and two faculty members and meets the first Tuesday of every month to discuss matters of interest to fraternity men. The members of the Council this year are Woodward and Meacham from Alpha Sigma Phi, Moreau and Brown of Chi Psi, Parker and Keppler of Delta Kappa Epsilon, Fullington and Noonan of Delta Upsilon and Kinne and Valentine of Kappa Delta Rho.

Football Send-Offs

Middlebury men have returned to their custom of meeting departing and returning athletic teams, whether they win or lose. The first send-off was given when the men left for the first game, which they played with West Point, and at the next meeting of the Undergraduate Association it was voted to make this a custom for the year.

"A. B. AND N. G."

Oh the endless procession of college degrees,
The A. B.'s and A. M.'s and B. S.'s;
Oh the double L. B.'s and double L. D.'s
And the dreary commencement addresses.

Oh the summa cum laude, the mag, and plain cum,
How they dazzle the eyes of the masses!
And there's never a word for the silent and glum,
For the lads at the foot of the classes.

I am tired of the books that the critics call tomes,
With their ibid's and heavy aroma.
I am tired of the men with their erudite domes,
And I yearn for the man sans diploma.

Greasy grinds who felt sore when they sank to B plus
May excel in the things which refine us.
But I'll drain my last Bevo to every poor cuss
Who gloats when he soared to C minus.

"The Com. of 48"

Independent liberal voters from all of the forty-eight states will come together in a conference in St. Louis called by the Committee of Forty-Eight for December 9th next.

The Committee which has its headquarters at 15 East Fortieth Street, New York City, has just issued a statement calling attention to the necessity for frank discussion of vital political, social and economic issues. Neither the Republican nor the Democratic party is willing to bring up such issues, the statement continues, and it is necessary for those of liberal opinion to draw up a platform restating fundamental principles of Americanism as applied to present-day problems. The Conference will discuss the advisability of either forming a new political party or affiliating with the farmer and labor organizations now in existence.

The Committee of Forty-Eight was formed last March and now has a nation-wide membership. It has issued a question blank to all of its members, asking for views on current industrial and political questions. From the answers to this, a tentative program will be prepared to submit to the coming Conference.

Dean Birney Will Speak

A change has been made in the arrangement for chapel preachers in October. In order to give President Thomas an opportunity to attend the 150th anniversary of Dartmouth College, Dean Birney of the Boston College School of Theology will conduct the service on October 19 and Professor Harrington will be the college preacher October 26.

Prof. Duane L. Robinson will also attend the Dartmouth anniversary as a representative of Middlebury.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS TO MEET NOV. 14-15

The days on which the Association of the Colleges of New England will meet at Middlebury are to be November 14 and 15, according to an announcement made by President Thomas. The first faculty delegate to send in his name to the President was Prentiss C. Hoyt '89, who is head of the English Department at Clark College.

Dr. Lawrence's social service class will be held this year in the Methodist instead of the Congregational Church. The class will occupy the room where the Sunday Noon Club met last year, but from which the club moved this fall.

After several unsuccessful attempts to puncture the Boston defense, Ross punted to B. C.'s 45-yard line, Fitzpatrick running the ball back 10 yards before being downed. After a few short gains Corrigan threw a long forward pass which Ring caught over the goal line, for the final touchdown. The puntout was lost. The half ended with the ball in possession of B. C. in mid-field.

During the second half the teams battled on fairly even terms neither side seriously threatening the opposing goal line. Midd showed to better advantage in this half and Boston College had to be content with the lead it had accumulated during the first half. The summary:

ALUMNI NOTES

'94. Prof. P. C. Voter of the Chemistry Department, who is having a year's leave for work at Harvard, is sharing a laboratory there with Dr. Harry Wells '94. In the same building with him also is Prof. Paine who was formerly Professor of Mathematics at Middlebury. Mr. and Mrs. Voter are making their home this fall and winter at 3 Francesca avenue, West Somerville, Mass.

'98. Joseph A. Peck has been in Middlebury for the last few days called by the illness and death of his father-in-law.

'09. Mr. Ivan D. Hagar has severed connection with the Certain-teed Products Corporation of St. Louis where he was formerly employed and is now working with the New Jersey Zinc Company of New York City. He is residing at Mahwah, N. J.

'11. John M. Avery, who is a graduate of both Middlebury High School and Middlebury College, and who was recently appointed state tax commissioner, was among a number of candidates admitted to the State Bar at Montpelier last week.

'13. Miss Faith B. Linsley was a visitor at the College on Saturday.

'19. Mildred Cady has been visiting her parents in town for a few days.

'19. Marguerite Dyer is teaching French and Spanish in Springfield High School, instead of music as was stated in a previous issue of The Campus.

Two members of the class of '19, Marguerite Dyer and Howard Watson, were back in their old places in the college choir last Sunday.

Prexy, to "frosh" on outside chapel stairs: Didn't you know that freshmen are not expected to congregate here?

Frightened Freshie: I-I-don't see h-how one freshman can c-congregate!

CAMPUS CHATTER

Among the visitors on the hill this week were Dorothy Nash, Ella Fellowes, Marguerite Dyer, and Howard Watson of the class of '19, and Marguerite Jones '18. Helen Benedict '22 also entertained her parents this weekend.

Professor Hathaway is gradually recovering from his illness, and hopes to meet his classes next week.

Breen '20 is laid up for a few days with a broken rib. Breen was injured during the football game with Boston University last Saturday. He is being treated by Dr. Ross and expects to be able to return to the game in a few weeks.

Donald F. Weekes, '23 narrowly escaped a serious accident Monday afternoon when in the rear of Starr Hall he was struck by a Harley-Davidson motorcycle, owned and driven by a fellow named Grosvenor. The machine struck Weekes from the rear as the latter was running across the roadway to catch a baseball thrown by a companion. Aside from a few scratches Weekes escaped uninjured.

Mrs. Abbie McNeil of St. Johnsbury, mother of Miss Laila McNeil, the College Librarian, is at the Piper house on Weybridge street, which the College has converted into a girls' dormitory, and is acting as chaperone of the dozen girls now living there.

Furber '20 spent several days last week at his home in Dorchester, Mass., where he attended his sister's wedding.

What is Truth? Come and talk it over next Sunday with the S. N. C.

An Appreciation

The American doughboys have heard many, many speakers in France, but ninety per cent were the same. We would enter our "Y" hut and listen to the speaker and more often than not it sounded like old, familiar machinery to us, which we had heard grinding before. We would say to ourselves, "Old stuff, Brother, old stuff". Many of you know the usual speech, "Keep clean", "Buy Liberty bonds", "Yours is a wonderful opportunity", "It must be great to go over the top" and "Gee, I wish I could go over with you Boys." (the latter always said by a gentleman over 45 years of age)

Then we would place well down on our forehead that piece of furniture known as the "overseas cap" and gracefully (?) leave the "Y" building. They wondered why. We were looking for the man who really had something to say. We would return the next night and repeat the same process, but once we well remember hearing a man in a quiet old city on the upper waters of the Garonne river. Again we heard him in Paris and more times later on, as his son was one of our number. He came quite often. He is a silvery-tongued orator, he is a humorist (one of our leading humorists) and what seemed best to us, he is a "Man with a Message". (A rare bird, to be sure, in those days) He is coming to speak to us here in the future, It will please you and pay you to hear him, his name is John Kendrick Bangs.

Signed,
